ABOUT

We are an inter-laboratory veterinary proficiency testing program (PTP) specifically designed for veterinary laboratories, hospitals, and clinics. The program provides a confidential means of comparing your internal test results globally to other participants in the veterinary industry.

We have been in operation for over 25 years with clients in 21 countries around the world.

At the Atlantic Veterinary College (AVC), University of Prince Edward Island (UPEI), we are supported by

- a large and fully functioning Diagnostic Laboratory Testing Centre
- the UPEI Centre for Veterinary Epidemiological Research
- the AVC Veterinary Teaching Hospital
- the AVC Centre for Aquatic Health Sciences

These centres of excellence are operated by an exceptionally skilled and highly qualified team of

- medical laboratory technologists and professionals
- board-certified mammalian and fish pathologists
- board-certified clinical pathologists and microbiologists
- statisticians
- epidemiologists

What is a proficiency testing program?

A proficiency testing program is an external system in which blind samples are tested, and the results are submitted for evaluation. This process monitors the competency of personnel, testing protocols, and instrument accuracy.

WHAT WE DO

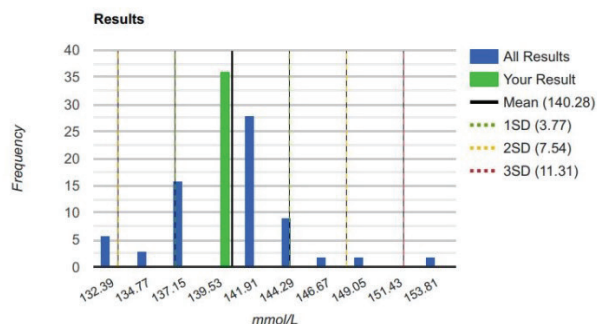

The program offers customized professional reports that let you know, at a glance, where your results stand in relation to other participants in the veterinary industry. Through the program, you can monitor your sample analysis and track your methods and instruments quarterly. Our flexible program allows you to choose any combination of a wide range of testing and can be customized to meet your needs.

WHY WORK WITH US?

- The International Veterinary Proficiency Testing Centre is the world's only Veterinary Diagnostic Proficiency Program that offers a broad range of testing schemes using real clinical samples providing the true matrix for all the proficiency tests.
- Clients are provided with customized confidential reports as well as case reviews written by our board-certified pathologists and microbiologists, adding a valuable educational component. We also offer a Digital Image Library with real clinical cases to be used for training and continuing education purposes.
- Participation in the program supports veterinary diagnostic laboratories and clinics in meeting their accreditation requirements.
- Our centre has a rigorous quality management program and state-of-the-art equipment.
- Participation in the program ensures consistency throughout the veterinary diagnostic industry, which ultimately improves animal welfare and sets a standard for veterinary laboratory medicine.

BECOME OUR CLIENT

The International Veterinary PTC's proficiency program is available to any veterinary laboratory, hospital, or clinic interested in or required to participate in a proficiency testing program. Participation in the program is an excellent way to evaluate the performance of your in-house diagnostic instruments.
